Collection flow chart

If you are a distributor (either 1st tier or other downstream distributors):

Collection flow chart

If you are an end-user:

OPEN CONTAINERS STACKING

Make sure when moving around two containers filled that the feet of the top container are interlocked in the stacking pins of the bottom container

Full Crates Stacking

STANDARD STACKING OF CRATES FILLED : 3 ON 1

FOR A STACKING 4 ON 1 , SPECIFIC TRAINING AND ADAPTED EQUIPMENT ARE REQUIRED

Open and Remove Big Side

Step 1:
Unlock the latches

Step 2:
Pull the long side towards you

Step 3:
Pull up the left part of the long side

Step 4:
Slide the long side to the left so as to free the bottom right pinion and remove the side completely

Open and Take out Rubber Bales

Option 1 : large sides are removable. Remove 1 large side
Do not forget to hinge back the sides when the operation is finished

Option 2 : small sides can be opened out completely. Open both for an easy access to the last rubber bales layer
Do not forget to hinge back the sides when the operation is finished

Option 3 : Remove all the sides.
Do not forget to hinge back the sides when the operation is finished

Do not climb on, or step onto the sides to pull out the rubber bales as it damages the sides.

How to fold the Crates?

1. Unlock both spring locks on one big side. Now the big side can stand by itself outwards

2. Unlock one of the two spring locks on the second big side and let down the corresponding small side. Unlock the second spring lock on the big side and let down the second small side.

3. Then, let down both big sides and make sure the locks are pulled down so that to avoid they are broken during empty stacking phase.

4. Folded crates ready for collection

Non-nested sides are wrong and unsafe
Stacking will be unstable

The large sides must be hinged back after rubber removal for return to GPS so that to secure loading and unloading operations and transit
